ORDER:

Various Government departments in Andhra Pradesh have taken up several initiatives under Information Technology (IT) and mobile applications to achieve the goals of e-Government and digital transformation. To achieve efficiency and optimal results, there is a need to follow uniform procedures, standards, and best practices. It has been observed that several departments are implementing e-Government and digital transformation projects without following common standards and protocols.

2. In the GO 2nd read above orders were issued to Departments, Corporations and Autonomous Organizations, to implement common standards, guidelines and compliance matrices pertaining to the following IT initiatives for compliance :-

a) Software development for a new e-Government application, and software and systems integration of existing application i.e. standards to be complied with regard to application features, coding, testing, Go-live of the application, security audit)
b) Data hosting
c) Data sharing and database access
d) Web site development
e) Mobile applications development
f) Social media accounts and related engagement

3. In pursuance of the orders in GO 2nd read above, all the Departments, Corporations and Autonomous Organizations are to consult Information Technology Electronics & Communications Department for technical concurrence, well in advance i.e., 20 to 30 days depending upon the size of the application prior to floating of Request for Proposal (RFP) conforming to the standards mentioned in the GO 2nd read above, for identifying a new service provider for development of new online applications, mobile applications, website or maintenance of existing online applications, mobile applications, website. Further, a compliance matrix for each of the relevant activities mentioned in para-2 (i to f) above for an existing application, all the departments are to circulate along with the RFP, to Information Technology Electronics & Communications Department for Technical concurrence prior to identifying a new service provider for maintenance of the on-going application/ website / mobile application.
